

STATION 1 · EXCEPTION 1

Scope too vague to staff

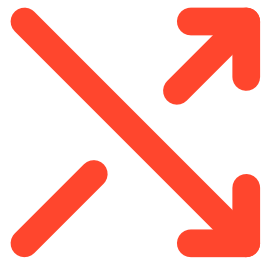

At Northgate: The contract says "knowledge transfer as agreed". How many people, for how long?

THE DRAFT RULE

It becomes a question to the solution lead, with a deadline. The plan waits. No answer by the deadline: it goes to the engagement lead.

At this station: Is the draft rule right? Write the rule your table would use: when, then, who decides, by when, and if nobody answers.

Then stick your table's rule card on the wall beside this poster.

STATION 2 · EXCEPTION 2

Two deals want the same person

At Northgate: Northgate and another deal both want the same project manager in December.

THE DRAFT RULE

The clash is spotted when the second hold is placed. The resourcing lead decides which hold stays, with a reason. The other deal records a shortfall.

STATION 3 · EXCEPTION 3

A skill missing from the approved list

At Northgate: Northgate needs "Azure Virtual WAN". It is not on the approved skills list.

THE DRAFT RULE

It becomes a question to the owner of the skills list, with a deadline. Nobody slips in a near match without saying so.

Then stick your table's rule card on the wall beside this poster.

STATION 4 · EXCEPTION 4

A release is refused

At Northgate: The only other person with the firewall skill is the sole expert on their own account. Their manager says no.

THE DRAFT RULE

The refusal and its reason are recorded as evidence. The search goes on, and the role stays a shortfall until a named person declares a gap.

STATION 5 · EXCEPTION 5

Blocked by cost, not by people

At Northgate: A qualified person is free in another country, but their cost base makes the role unaffordable.

THE DRAFT RULE

It is recorded as a cost block, never as a missing skill. A named person decides whether to pay the difference.

EXCEPTION 1 · SCOPE TOO VAGUE TO STAFF

The contract says "knowledge transfer as agreed". How many people, for how long?

Rule 1

It becomes a question to the solution lead, with a deadline. The plan waits. No answer by the deadline: it goes to the engagement lead.

Rule 2

Plan knowledge transfer at a standard size, such as one person for four weeks. Correct it when the scope is clear.

EXCEPTION 2 · TWO DEALS WANT THE SAME PERSON

Northgate and another deal both want the same project manager in December.

Rule 1

The deal more likely to be signed keeps the person, by a fixed rule on win chance. Nobody needs to decide.

Rule 2

The clash is spotted when the second hold is placed. The resourcing lead decides which hold stays, with a reason. The other deal records a shortfall.

EXCEPTION 3 · A SKILL MISSING FROM THE APPROVED LIST

Northgate needs "Azure Virtual WAN". It is not on the approved skills list.

Rule 1

It becomes a question to the owner of the skills list, with a deadline. Nobody slips in a near match without saying so.

Rule 2

Use the nearest skill on the list and mark it as a near match. The list owner reviews near matches every month.

EXCEPTION 4 · A RELEASE IS REFUSED

The only other person with the firewall skill is the sole expert on their own account. Their manager says no.

Rule 1

A refusal goes to the practice lead, who can overrule the manager within two days when the deal is worth more.

Rule 2

The refusal and its reason are recorded as evidence. The search goes on, and the role stays a shortfall until a named person declares a gap.

EXCEPTION 5 · BLOCKED BY COST, NOT BY PEOPLE

A qualified person is free in another country, but their cost base makes the role unaffordable.

Rule 1

It is recorded as a cost block, never as a missing skill. A named person decides whether to pay the difference.

Rule 2

Above a set cost difference, treat it as a gap and send it to hiring. Below it, use the person.
