Go ahead

Nothing is broken. The system acts.

Ask a person

A named person decides, within a set time.

Stop

A rule is broken. Refused, with the rule shown.

Are the criteria met?

● Green: met ● Amber: partly ● Red: not met

The outcome is agreed, holds for one deal, and a trusted record can prove it.

Every decision has a named role, a reason a person decides, and a response time.

The working version ran at least one case end to end, live, checked against the record.

The rotation rules are agreed, or each open rule has an owner and a date.

There is a path to read access to the systems the first slice needs.

Every open requirement has an owner and a date.
